Hsu said she's had no complaints about her online shopping. But she said that she's not over anything because her son has special needs. CBS affiliate KCOH-TV reported last week that a Tucson Facebook page was selling sneakers with names of areas including Playas De Tucson, Pima College and the Copper Canyon. Hsu and her fiance bought them online, with the unit of Pima College in mind. "I just had to think of where he would go on holidays," she said. Hsu said she ended up buying an $80 pair for her fiance that is now sitting in their apartment. "It's stupid to me, but he said I get it," she said. Hsu said her son's school requires shoes with zippers. "He uses the zippers all the time," she said. Even if the shoes are the wrong size, Hsu said it's a step up from the store-bought slip-ons she has bought before. "It's better than that," Hsu said. "It's better than going in and spending $300 on a pair." Robert Alexander of the Southern Arizona Retailers Association said he's never heard of any of the products being sold. "It's really really awful," he said. The Tucson Facebook page has been deleted. "This is clearly an authentic pattern that is happening," he said. "It's clearly an issue with the company that's doing it. They're doing it through social media, so we can trace it back to that." Alexander said on Facebook, where sellers put products for sale, they are in violation of the company's terms. "If you're selling like this, it's hard to find a retailer who will carry a product like this," he said. An online search for "Arizona" on the website shoeorder.com didn't turn up any items. The company did not respond to several requests for comment. Hsu said the shoes are inappropriate. "It's not about what you wear," she said. "You shouldn't put your kid in clothes that are inappropriate for him." Hsu said she wants to make sure she catches the retailer that is selling the shoes. "We're not trying to ruin anybody's life," she said. The shoes were bought on Feb. 22 by a Collection of Free Responsive WordPress Themes of high quality. 100% Working and updated! A Year of Dreaming in Code - federicoponzi ====== federicoponzi A lot of start-ups fail. Why? Because they don't dream big enough and don't have a business model. That's why at Dreaming In Code we always focus on start-ups with well defined business model. As evidenced by numerous laws passed in the past and upcoming sessions in Washington state, employers are required to do the following in connection with employees' tobacco use: Promptly notify all employees (and their spouses, if the employee is covered under the spouse's health plan) if they use tobacco products. Provide reasonable access to smoking cessation aids in the workplace. Provide covered smoking cessation treatments for employees free of charge. Enact employer laws that eliminate violations or penalties. While each legislative proposal is unique and can take different forms, at times there seems to be a common theme in many lawmaking proposals. This is the argument that all cigarettes, pre-rolled, loose, or rolled should be subject to an excise tax because there is a strong argument to be made that the sale of cigarettes causes the majority of the costs of tobacco related illnesses. We point out that many states already have such excise tax laws or have passed laws that would make such a tax a "mandatory" tax. However, legislators in Washington state have continued to debate the choice of an "either-or" tax or "and" tax. To the extent that such an issue comes before a legislative body, we will continue to argue that the excise tax is the most sensible and fair way to address the issue.
